SPECIALITY COFFEE

BATCH BREW

batch brew is pour over coffee created using machine assistance to do the pouring over of water onto coffee.

AED 20

COLD BREW

cold brewing is a method of brewing that combines ground coffee & cool water and uses time instead of heat to extract the flavor.

AED 22

COLD DRIP

cold drip coffee separates the cold water from the coffee grounds completely. The technique requires a cold drip apparatus or drip tower. Produces a low-acid that find pleasingly delicate.

AED 19

FRENCH PRESS

French press uses a plunger to press against the mixture of coffee & hot water to extract the coffee oils and flavor. This gadget gives you full bodied coffee as coffee grinds must be coarser and long brewing time.

AED 21

V60 POUR OVER

this method is a favorite among many baristas. There is less sediments in the drink compared to French Press because of the use of paper filters.

AED 24

CHEMEX

the Chemex is a type of manual coffee maker. It uses an elegant hourglass shaped flask and proprietary filters that are thicker than normal drip coffee filters.

Naturally sweeter and mild.
